

A trio of contemporary Chilean jewellery artists presents their latest collections as part of Amalgam, an exhibition by Cluster London, held within the framework of London Design Festival 2026. Their work embraces experimentation with unconventional materials, including seaweed, recycled copper and fruit peel, revealing a freedom of form and subject matter grounded in a deep understanding of each material's inherent qualities. Through this material-led approach, the artists challenge the boundaries of contemporary jewellery, transforming unexpected materials into expressive, sculptural forms of wearable art.
