

BAXTER COLLECTIBLE - TILE COLLECTION

DRAGA & AUREL

The TILE collection, designed by Draga & Aurel for Baxter's Collectibles capsule collection, transforms the concept of the tile into an architectural system capable of inhabiting space with sculptural strength. In this selection, which includes boiserie, cabinets and sideboards, the geometric module becomes the starting point for a volumetric narrative that challenges the boundaries between art and design. Each element of the series is an exercise in material experimentation: the tile becomes skin, cladding and structure, defining surfaces that capture light and reflect its ever-changing nature. Baxter's research elevates these geometries into unique compositions where rigor and freedom are in constant dialogue. The boiserie envelops walls, transforming them into tactile scenographies, while the cabinet and sideboard assert themselves as sculptural presences with a strong identity, designed for those who seek not simple furniture, but pieces in which material truly comes to life.

The TILE coffee table, born from the vision of Draga & Aurel for the Baxter Collectibles capsule collection, is the pure distillation of the original concept: the tile as a universal module.

Here, geometry becomes an everyday object, a table that synthesizes the designers' poetic vision into a compact volume with intense magnetism.

Designed as a meeting point between form and light, the Tile coffee table plays with the compositional potential of materials, creating an original contrast between the rigor of design and the naturalness of craftsmanship. It is a piece of furniture that invites touch, a surface that explores the relationship between tactility and function. Perfect for refined living spaces, the Tile coffee table does not simply complete a room, but reorients it, becoming the focal point of an aesthetic dialogue suspended between the rigor of artisanal technique and the boldest artistic gesture.