

Riolab Ceramics presents Dune Collection at London Design Festival 2026

Riolab Ceramics will take part in London Design Festival 2026, exhibiting the Dune Collection in Shoreditch. Created by Chilean designer and founder Paulina Moreno Rios, the collection brings together sculptural ceramic pieces inspired by the desert landscape of northern Chile, where she grew up.

Dune takes particular inspiration from Iquique, Moreno Rios's hometown, where the Atacama Desert meets the Pacific Ocean. The collection translates the sweeping curves and shifting forms of the dunes into functional objects for the home, including vases, bowls and candle holders.

The collection draws on the changing appearance of the dunes throughout the day. Sunlight casts dramatic shadows across the surface of the sand, creating a rich palette of shifting tones. Oranges and browns predominate during the daytime, gradually giving way to deep and varied purples as the sun sets over the Pacific.

“Growing up in Iquique, the desert was always part of my visual landscape. With Dune, I wanted to translate its forms, light and colours into objects, creating pieces that feel sculptural while remaining connected to everyday use.”

Riolab Ceramics explores the intersection between digital technologies and traditional craft, creating ceramic pieces that are both sculptural and functional. Working primarily with coloured porcelain, the studio explores form, colour and texture, creating objects with a strong tactile presence.

The Dune Collection translates the shifting forms, light and tones of the desert into ceramic objects. Soft curves and changing colours reflect the movement of the dunes, while tactile surfaces invite touch and interaction. Designed for everyday rituals, the pieces bring a distinctive presence to moments of daily life.

Visitors will be able to discover the Dune Collection alongside selected pieces from the Terrazzo Collection by Riolab Ceramics during London Design Festival 2026.

Location & Visit Information

Kachette
347 Old St, Shoreditch
London EC1V 9LP

15–17 September 2026

Website: riolabceramics.com
Instagram: @Riolabceramics