Fisher & Paykel brings its State of the Art Collection to London Design Festival 2026

Luxury home appliance brand Fisher & Paykel returns to London Design Festival for a fifth year, inviting festival visitors Inside the Fisher & Paykel Experience Centre as part of the official LDF26 Partner Programme featuring the city's best industrial & product design.

Designed in New Zealand since 1934, Fisher & Paykel exists to create moments of delight in the heart of the home. Through cooking, refrigeration, dishwashing and fabric care, the brand creates integrated appliance ecosystems for modern living – human-centered, inspired by nature, and engineered for life.

At LDF26, that offering is led by the State of the Art Collection following its international debut at EuroCucina 2026 in Milan. Visitors can experience the new 60cm Minimal and Contemporary ovens (available November 2026) and Series 11 RS90 integrated columns, alongside a preview of Minimal Fabric Care, ahead of its early 2027 launch.

Stephen Rickersey, Chief Operating Officer for UK, Ireland & Europe, Fisher & Paykel, says:

“London Design Festival is when the city comes together around design. Our Experience Centre is open to festival visitors to experience Fisher & Paykel as a whole of home appliance brand – and to see our State of the Art Collection in the context it was designed for: the life lived around appliances.”

Fisher & Paykel's LDF26 presence is amplified through an exclusive panel discussion 'Designed to Last: Reimagining Architecture for How We Live, Gather, and Grow,' for leading architecture and design partners at the Experience Centre. Alongside this, Fisher & Paykel is hosting curated tours, and industry sessions throughout the week.

Tours will run from Monday 14 to Friday 18 September and are open to all London Design Festival visitors. From kawakawa tea on arrival through to the Social Kitchen, guests are introduced to Fisher & Paykel's Designed in New Zealand philosophy and how its integrated appliance solutions support the way people cook, gather, care and live.
