Song Art & Craft Opens Its East London Studio for London Design Festival 2026

Handmade glass flowers, curated craft objects and hands-on making come together at the studio from 12-20 September 2026.

London, September 2026 - Song Art & Craft will take part in London Design Festival 2026 from 12-20 September 2026, opening its East London studio as a craft concept store, curated retail space and creative workshop destination.

Based near Hoxton and Shoreditch, Song Art & Craft will welcome visitors to explore a selection of handmade and curated craft objects, including lampworked glass flowers, ceramic flowers, fabric flowers, decorative floral arrangements, handmade glass pieces, contemporary ceramics, vintage and pre-owned ceramics, home decoration pieces and selected gifts.

The Festival programme will give visitors an opportunity to see how craft, retail and hands-on making can come together within one working studio.

Alongside the retail display, Song Art & Craft will introduce visitors to some of the making processes used within the studio, including lampworking glass, kiln-formed glass, stained glass, glass painting and metalwork.

A key part of the programme will be Song Art & Craft's Lampworking Glass Flower Workshops, where participants can learn how coloured glass rods are heated and shaped using a specialist torch before creating their own handmade glass flower.

For London Design Festival visitors, Song Art & Craft will offer 10% off selected Glass Flower Making Workshops booked through its dedicated LDF booking page.

"London Design Festival gives us the opportunity to show visitors more than the finished objects. We want people to understand how they are made, experience the materials themselves and see how workshops, handmade products and curated craft retail can exist together in one space."
